The 3 Reasons Why Book of Knowledge brings a new kind of reference tool to the world – one that provides clear, concise and fact-based summaries of the world’s most discussed topics, past and present, for any reader to easily consume. Today’s world is awash in an endless array of information with no shortage of subjects on which you may choose to be informed. We have Google, Bing, Wikipedia, Reddit, Quora, YouTube and the list goes on and on. Do we even need a single reason for yet another source of information to add to all of the noise? Well, here are three reasons why. 1. Concise. It’s easy to get overwhelmed by the wealth of information on the internet when all you need is the fundamentals. Stop yourself from becoming overstuffed on information, lest you become sick to your stomach. 2. Factual. The internet is notorious for people presenting false information as facts. If you need to spend time researching the answers someone gave you to the question you just asked, you may find yourself in an endless spiral of internet research. 3. Interesting. For every good “why” there is a reason, but is it the reason you were looking for, and is it interesting? Enter 3 Reasons Why, the only information platform where you ask the questions and we provide 3 concise, factual and interesting reasons. We believe that less is more and we strive to get past all of the noise in order to provide readers with 3 simple reasons.
