The Multi-Universe Cosmos: The First Complete Story of the Origin of the Universe A.K. Velan

In light of the barrage of popular books on physics and cosmology, one may question the need for another. Here, two books especially come to mind: Steven Weinberg's The First Three Minutes, written 12 years ago, and the recent best-seller A Brief History of Time by Stephen Hawking. The two books are complementary. Weinberg-Nobel prize winner/physicist-wrote from the standpoint of an elementary particle physicist with emphasis on the contents of the universe, whereas Hawking wrote more as a general relativist with emphasis on gravity and the geometry of the universe. Neither one, however, presented the complete story. Weinberg did not venture back beyond the time when temperature was higher than 10 K and perhaps as high as 10³² K. He gave no explanation for the origin of particles and the singularity or source of the overwhelming radiation energy in our universe of one billion photons for each proton. Hawking presents a universe that has no boundaries, was not created, and will not be destroyed. The object of this book is to describe my new theory on the creation of our universe in a multi-universe cosmos. The new cosmological model eliminates the troublesome singularity-big bang theory and explains for the first time the origin of matter and the overwhelming electromagnetic radiation contained in the universe. My new theory also predicted the existence of high-energy gamma rays, which were recently detected in powerful bursts.
